More than ten thousand people witnessed the picketing.

As usual large crowds began to collect in the vicinity of the school from as early as 8 a.m.

The crowd near the school began to swell into thousands as the appointed time neared, apart from the large crowd that followed from behind the volunteers in a procession.

The Mint Street area, especially Peddunaickempet the place from where the volunteers started in a procession, and its neighbourhood was patrolled by the police.

At a little past 10-30 a.m. the volunteers started from Kasi Viswanathar temple near Krishnappa Naicken tank in a procession shouting "Long live Tamil" "Down with Hindi" and "Tamil Nad for Tamilians."

They were followed from behind by a large crowd of people and a van with a posse of constables.

Procession

The procession passed through Mint Street and reached the school at 11 a.m.

Long before the volunteers arrived the police stationed in the school area, regulated the rush of the crowd and the traffic.

Six constables formed a cordon in front of the school. the Deputy and Assistant Commissioners Divisional Inspector Sub-Inspectors and the C.I.D. were present.

A van was stationed near the entrance of the School.

The windows and the doors of the school remained closed. As the volunteers reached the School promises they were given a thunderous ovation by the crowd.

The police prevented the crowd from following the volunteers. But the crowd was uncontrollable.

At 11-10 a.m. the volunteers came near the entrance of the school and shouted "Down with Hindi" and "Long live Tamil"

They were asked to disperse by the police, but they refused to do so, and said that they would not budge from there till compulsory Hindi was removed. They were then warned by the police, but they insisted on standing there.

Later they were arrested and taken in a van to the Elephant Gate Police Station when a case was registered against them under Sec. 7 (1) A of the Criminal Law Amendment Act.
